As inquiring learners and thinkers, students will explore different cultures, techniques and styles through the study of jazz. Students will study swing, bebop, blues, Latin, rock and funk styles according to their influence on the jazz art form. This balanced approach to music education will enable students to become open-minded, knowledgeable, caring individuals and musicians. Public performances, festivals and some out-of-school practices are part of the expectations of this class. These events will help the students learn to take risks as musicians and leaders. Principled practice and reflection on every performance will also be expected.
